(a) "Ordinarily, there can be no objection to the pursuit of knowledge by Govt. Employees in their leisure hours, but this must be subject to the condition that such pursuit does in no way detract from their efficiency. Whenever found necessary, the Controlling Authorities may require that Govt. employees under their control should take prior permission before joining educational institutions or courses of studies for University Degrees, as the joining of educational institutions involves advance commitment about attendance at specific hours and absence from duty during periods of examinations. This will, of course, be without prejudice to any other departmental action being taken where mere withdrawal of the permission is not considered adequate".

(b) "While taking into account the various administrative considerations in deciding upon a request for permission to attend courses of study outside office hours, the period of tenure of the Govt. servant concerned should also be taken into account so that in the ordinary course, occasions do not arise to ask for extension of tenure to cover the period of the course attended by him which may continue beyond the expiry of the tenure".
